Kevin Pearce, former professional snowboarder, is an inspirational public speaker and co-founder of the LoveYourBrain Foundation. In 2009, while training for the Olympic trials, Kevin suffered a traumatic brain injury. Despite the fact that Kevin's half-pipe career was brought to an end that day, his determination and drive to overcome the catastrophe through vigorous rehabilitation, personal training and giving back to others continues to inspire his family, friends and fans every day. His recovery was chronicled in the award-winning documentary film, "The Crash Reel."

Kevin has become a passionate advocate for the prevention of brain injuries and the promotion of a brain healthy lifestyle for all people. Together with his brother, Adam, he co-founded the LoveYourBrain Foundation (LoveYourBrain.com) whose vision is to create a community that has a greater understanding of the importance of the human brain and consequently a smarter and healthier generation of active people. One of LoveYourBrain's core programs is a gentle yoga and meditation program offered across the United States and Canada, including at QLI.
